ANNOUNCEMENT
OF THE
COMMITTEE ON COMMUNICATIONS
OF THE
ANTHROPOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF WASHINGTON

The ANTHROPOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF WASHINGTON has long been a recognized medium for the communication of the results of research and for the interchange of views among anthropologists. Thus it has come to be known, not only in the national capital but throughout our country and indeed in other lands as a working scientific institution. Organized in 1879 "to encourage the study of the Natural History of Man, especially with reference to America," it has grown with the modern anthropology which it was designed to promote and sustain.

The Society has taken such rank, and the Science of Man has reached such a stage, as to warrant an extension of the functions of the institution; and it is proposed hereafter to promote the science by wider diffusion of knowledge as well as by encouraging research. To this end provision has been made for the presentation of a series of carefully prepared addresses on different anthropologic subjects, each designed to summarize the results of recent American and foreign research in special lines for the benefit of students in other branches of anthropology as well as the intelligent public. Provision has been made also for symposia on different subjects of local and general interest. So far as is consistent with strictly scientific character, these addresses and symposia will be divested of technicalities with the view of increasing their value to non-specialists. In addition, provision has been made for continuing the presentation of shorter papers embodying the results of special research.

Among the subjects selected for presentation during the season 1892-'93 are the following:

Local geographic Nomenclature (Symposium). The discussion of this subject was commenced at the regular meeting on November 16 and continued at the regular meeting on December 6, when the formal report of a special committee on the subject was presented: it will be concluded at a special meeting on December 13.

Is simplified Spelling feasible? (Symposium). The discussion will be opened by Professor F. A. MARCH, of Lafayette College, President of the American Philological Society. Contributions are expected from Hon EDWIN WILLIAMS, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture; Hon A. R. SPOFFORD, Librarian of Congress; Dr ALEXANDER MELVILLE BELL, author of "World-English;" Hon W. T. HARRIS, Commissioner of Education; Professor W. B. POWELL, Superintendent of Schools; Hon FRANK HATTON, Editor of the Post; Miss KATE FIELD, Editor of Kate Fidd's Washington; Dr THEODORE W. NOYES, Editor of the Star; Professor BENJAMIN E. SMITH, Editor of the Century Dictionary; Dr THOMAS A. EDISON; Right Reverend JOHN J. KEANE, Rector of the Catholic University of America; Hon FRANK A. PALMER, Public Printer; JAMES CONSTANTINE PILLING, of the Bureau of Ethnology; President E. M. GALLAUDET, of the Deaf Mute College; Professor BASIL L. GILDERSLEEVE, of Johns Hopkins University; and Major J. W. POWELL, Director of the Bureau of Ethnology. The subject will be discussed from various points of view, including Philology, Etymology, Phonetics, Lexicography, Pedagogy, Literature, Telegraphy and Stenography, Elementary Education, Linguistics, Bibliography, Journalism, Book-making and Public Business. This symposium will be held on December 20, and if not completed at that session will be continued on December 27. While the discussion will not be limited to any system of simplified spelling, it is expected that the orthography recommended by the American and English Philological Societies will receive special consideration. If a decision as to the feasibility of simplified spelling is reached, it is expected that the future printing of the Society will accord therewith.

The deadly Microbe and its Destruction (Address); by Dr D. S. LAMB, of the Army Medical Museum.

Genius and Insanity as Forms of Abnormality (Address); by Dr ARTHUR MACDONALD, of the Bureau of Education, author of "Criminology."

Ancient Copper Mines of Lake Superior; by W. H. HOLMES.

The Sewing Needle—its History and Development; by P. B. PIERCE.

Addresses and papers on subjects to be announced later have been promised also by Dr WILLIAM A. HAMMOND, Surgeon-General U. S. A., retired; Dr WASHINGTON MATTHEWS, Surgeon U. S. A.; Professor C. A. KENASTON; E. T. PETERS; F. E. TASKER; Dr R. W. STUELFELD, of the Smithsonian Institution; and Professor O. T. MASON.

Other addresses, symposia and briefer communications will be announced from time to time. The regular meetings of the Society are held in Cosmos Hall, corner H street and Lafayette place, on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, 8 to 10 p. m. Programs are announced to members by special cards distributed on the Saturday preceding each meeting; also, through the courtesy of the press, in the morning and evening papers of the days of meeting. Special meetings will be held from time to time on alternate Tuesdays, and will be similarly announced.

The meetings are open to the friends of members, including ladies, and visiting anthropologists are invited to contribute papers and participate in discussion.

THE AMERICAN ANTHROPOLOGIST is the Journal of the Anthropological Society of Washington, and selected papers presented before the Society are printed in its pages. Contributions from other sources, both domestic and foreign, are also published. One of its features is a bibliography of anthropologic literature, prepared by Dr Robert Fletcher in the Library of the United States Army Medical Museum, the largest anthropologic library of the continent. The Journal is sent free to the active members of the Society, and to a large number of subscribers distributed over nearly all of our states and territories and several foreign countries. It is thus an excellent medium for publication by anthropologists; and at the same time the original memoirs and the quarterly bibliography render it invaluable to those students who desire to keep pace with the progress of the science.

The Journal is issued quarterly, making an annual volume of some 400 octavo pages, with plates and other illustrations. The fifth volume is now completed, and will be found to contain a greater amount and wider variety of matter than any of the earlier volumes of the series. Many important papers have already been promised for the sixth volume (of which the first number is in press), which will, it is believed, excel its predecessors in interest and value. The Journal will be made to maintain its place as the leading anthropologic serial of the country.

In order that the position of the ANTHROPOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF WASHINGTON and THE AMERICAN ANTHROPOLOGIST may be maintained, it is desirable that the membership of the former and the subscription list of the latter shall continue to increase with the diffusion of knowledge concerning and interest in the Science of Man, and it is hoped that members and subscribers will aid in securing this increase. The annual fee for active membership (including the Journal) is $5.00, and the annual subscription for the Journal is $3.00. The fee for life membership is $50.00.

Communications concerning the Journal should be addressed to The American Anthropologist, Washington, D. C.; correspondence relating to membership, etc, should be addressed to The Secretary of the Anthropological Society, Cosmos Club, Washington, D. C.; membership fees should be paid to P. B. Pierce, Treasurer, Patent Office, Washington, D. C.; and correspondence relating to communications before the Society should be addressed to the chairman or other members of the Committee on Communications.

PREFATORY NOTE.

The large increase in the membership and work of THE ANTHROPOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF WASHINGTON has made it necessary to issue a new list of members, with the by-laws as at present constituted. The Society was organized February 17th, 1879, with seventeen members. It was incorporated December 13th, 1887.

The Society has published three volumes of Transactions, one volume of Abstract of Transactions, two Special Papers and six volumes of a quarterly journal entitled The American Anthropologist.

Honorary, Active and Life members are entitled to the Anthropologist and all publications of the Society; Corresponding members pay two dollars per annum for the Anthropologist.

The lists of members are brought down to date and the addresses given include first the usual or business address, the other the residence, and the city of Washington is understood where no place is given. It is requested that any corrections be sent to the Secretary of the Board.

WESTON FLINT,

Washington, D. C., Secretary Board of Managers.
April 3, 1894.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION OF THE ANTHROPOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF WASHINGTON.

This is to certify that we, whose names are hereunto subscribed, citizens of the United States and a majority of whom are citizens of the District of Columbia, have associated ourselves together, pursuant to the provisions of the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to the District of Columbia and of an act of Congress entitled "An act to amend the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to the District of Columbia, and for other purposes," approved April 23, 1884, as a society and body corporate, to be known by the corporate name of "The Anthropological Society of Washington," for the term of one thousand years.

The particular objects and business of this Society are to encourage the study of the natural history of man, especially with reference to America; the publication of the transactions of the Society, of a periodical magazine, and of other works relating to the science of Anthropology and the disposition of such publications by sale or otherwise; the acquisition of a library, and the collection and care of materials relating to the above objects, under the restrictions and regulations to be established in its by-laws.

The affairs, funds, and property of the Corporation shall be in the general charge of Managers, whose number for the first year shall be fifteen, consisting of a President, four Vice-Presidents, a General Secretary, a Secretary to the Board of Managers, a Treasurer, a Curator, and six other members, styled Councilors, all of whom shall be chosen by ballot from among the members at the annual meeting. The duties of these officers and other officers and standing committees with their duties and their term and the manner of their election or appointment shall be provided for in the by-laws.

Signed,

BY-LAWS.

ARTICLE I. Name.

The name of this Society shall be "THE ANTHROPOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF WASHINGTON."

ARTICLE II. Object.

The object of this Society shall be to encourage the study of the Natural History of Man, especially with reference to America, and shall include Somatology, Sociology, Philology, Philosophy, Psychology, and Technology.

ARTICLE III. Members.

The members of this Society shall be persons who are interested in Anthropology, and shall be divided into four classes: Life, Active, Corresponding, and Honorary. Any member or any person elected to membership may, on the payment of the sum of fifty-dollars ($50.00) at one time, be made a Life member, and shall enjoy all the privileges of Active membership. The Active members shall be those who when elected shall be specially designated as such, and who shall pay the dues required by Article XV. Failure to comply with this provision within two months after notice of election, unless satisfactorily explained to the Board of Managers, shall render the election void. Active and Life members only shall be members of the corporation. Corresponding members shall be those who are engaged in anthropological investigation in other localities. Persons who have contributed by authorship or patronage to the advancement of Anthropology may be elected Corresponding or Honorary members. Corresponding or Honorary members may become Active members by paying the fee required by Article XV. Any Corresponding member from whom no scientific contribution is received for two years after his election may be dropped from the list of members by a vote of the Board of Managers ; but when so dropped shall be eligible to reinstatement.

All members shall be elected by the Board of Managers, and by ballot, as follows : The name of the candidate shall be recommended to the Board, in writing, by two members of the Society, and eight affirmative ballots shall be necessary to an election.

No person shall be entitled to the privileges of active membership before paying the admission fee provided in Article XV.

ARTICLE IV. Officers.

The officers of this Society shall be a President, four Vice-Presidents, a General Secretary, a Secretary to the Board of Managers, a Treasurer, and a Curator, all of whom, together with six other Active members styled Councilors, shall constitute a Board of Managers, all to be elected by ballot at each annual meeting. The officers shall serve one year, or until their successors are elected. Vacancies occurring during the year shall be filled by the Board.

ARTICLE V. The Board of Managers.

All business of the Society, except the election of officers at the annual meeting, shall be transacted by the Board of Managers, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum. The Board shall have charge of the funds and property of the Society.

The Board shall meet one-half hour before the regular sessions of the Society, and at such other times as they may be called together by the President. They may call special meetings of the Society.

ARTICLE VI. The Sections.

For active operations the Society shall be divided into four sections, as follows: Section A, Somatology; Section B, Sociology; Section C, Philology, Philosophy, and Psychology; Section D, Technology. The Vice-Presidents of the Society shall be ex-officio chairmen of these sections respectively, and shall be designated by the President to their sections after their election. It shall be the duty of these sections to keep the Society informed upon the progress of research in their respective fields, to make special investigations when requested by the Board of Managers, to announce interesting discoveries, to collect specimens, manuscripts, publications, newspaper clippings, etc., and in every way to foster their divisions of the work.

All papers presented to the sections shall be referred to the Board, and through it to the Society.

ARTICLE VII. The President.

The President, or in his absence, one of the Vice-Presidents, shall preside over all the meetings of the Society and of the Board, and shall appoint all committees in the Board and in the Society. He shall with the Secretary to the Board of Managers, sign all written contracts and obligations of the Society and attest its corporate seal, and he shall perform such other duties as the Board of Managers shall assign to him. At the first meeting in February the retiring President shall deliver an address to the Society.

ARTICLE VIII. The Vice-Presidents.

The Vice-Presidents shall respectively preside over the sections to which they have been designated, and represent such sections in the Board of Managers and in the Society.

Each of the Vice-Presidents shall deliver an address during the year upon such subject within his department as he may select.

ARTICLE IX. The General Secretary.

It shall be the duty of the General Secretary to record the transactions and conduct the general correspondence of the Society.

ARTICLE X. The Secretary to the Board of Managers.

The Secretary to the Board of Managers shall keep the minutes of the Board, shall keep a list of Life, Active, Corresponding, and Honorary members, with their residences, shall notify members of the time and place of all meetings of the Society, and shall perform such other duties as the Board may direct. He shall have the custody of the corporate seal.

ARTICLE XI. The Treasurer.

The Treasurer shall receive and have charge of all moneys; he shall deposit the funds as directed by the Board of Managers, and shall not expend any money except as ordered by the Board. He shall notify members in writing when their dues have remained unpaid for six months.

ARTICLE XII. The Curator.

The Curator shall receive, acknowledge, and have charge of all books, pamphlets, photographs, clippings, and other anthropological material, and shall dispose of them in accordance with Article XVI, keeping a record of them in a book provided by the Society.

ARTICLE XIII. Meetings.

The stated meetings of the Society shall be held on the first and third Tuesday of each month from November to May, inclusive. An annual meeting for the election of officers shall be held on the third Tuesday of January in each year, a quorum to consist of twenty active members who are not in arrears for dues; and visitors shall not be admitted. The proceedings of the Society shall be conducted in accordance with the established rules of parliamentary practice. Papers read shall be limited to twenty minutes, after which the subject shall be thrown open for discussion, remarks thereon to be limited to five minutes for each speaker.

ARTICLE XIV. Publications.

The address of the President, provided in Article VII, and the transactions of the Society, shall be printed and published annually, or at such periods and in such form as may be determined by the Board of Managers. The Board may, at its discretion, publish a magazine devoted to anthropologic subjects, of which the above-named matter may form part.

ARTICLE XV. Fees and Dues.

The admission fee shall be five dollars, which shall exempt the member from the payment of dues during the year in which he is elected. The annual dues thereafter shall be five dollars, to be paid on the first of February. The names of members failing to pay their dues one month after written notice from the Treasurer, as provided in Article XI, shall be dropped from the roll, unless from absence of the member from Washington, or other satisfactory explanation, the Board of Managers shall otherwise determine. The Board shall have power to remit the annual dues of a member in whole or in part.

ARTICLE XVI. Gifts.

It shall be the duty of all members to seek to increase and perfect the materials of anthropological study in the national collections at Washington. All gifts of specimens, books, pamphlets, maps, photographs, and newspaper clippings shall be received by the Curator, who shall exhibit them before the Society at the next regular meeting after their reception, and shall make such abstract or entry concerning them, in a book provided by the Society, as will secure their value as materials of research; after which all archæological and ethnological materials shall be deposited in the National Museum, in the name of the donor and of the Society; all crania and somatic specimens, in the Army Medical Museum; all books, pamphlets, photographs, clippings, and abstracts, in the archives of the Society.

ARTICLE XVII. Amendments.

These By-Laws shall not be amended except by a three fourths vote of the Active members present at the annual meeting for the election of officers, and after notice of the proposed change shall have been given in writing at a stated meeting of the Society, at least one month previously.

ARTICLE XVIII. Order of Business.

The order of business at each stated meeting shall be:

1. Reading the minutes of the last meeting.
2. Report of the Board of Managers upon membership and other subjects.
3. Report of the Curator.
4. Reading the papers and discussions.
5. Notes and queries.
